

WT-104 Four-button Hand-held Transmitter

The WT-104 is a 12-bit four-button hand-held transmitters designed for emergency and remote control applications in wireless security and remote control systems.

When activated, the WT-104 transmits a 12-bit message, selected by an internal DIP switch from 256 possible combinations. To assure reliable operation, an LED lights during transmission indicating that the battery is in good condition. For maximum simplicity, each of the buttons is programmed to activate a corresponding output (1 to 4) of the receiver.

For comfortable use as a portable device, the WT-104 has an ergonomically designed housing. A key ring and a neck chain are also included for maximum convenience.

The WT-104 is compatible with Visonic wireless receivers of the WR-200 and WR-300 series and other 12-bit devices. It is available in two frequency bands to comply with international standards, and is approved for use in most countries.

Features:

- Four buttons, each activating a corresponding output of the receiver.
- Attractive modern ergonomic design.
- Superior transmission range.
- 9 V standard alkaline or lithium battery.
- Visible low battery indication.
- Neck-chain and key-ring wearing accessories included.
- Available in two optional frequencies in compliance with international standards.
- Compatible with all Visonic WR-200/WR-300 wireless receivers and 12-bit wireless devices.